

ASSOCIATE IN SCIENCE

GENERAL STUDIES

(64 hrs. min.)

CIP: 24.0102

School of Health and Sciences, (505) 428-1307

The associate in science in general studies is intended to parallel the first two years of a bachelor of science degree and is composed of general education courses and courses focused in technology, engineering or the sciences. If students have already chosen their transfer institutions, selection of core courses should be based on the degree requirements of those institutions. Students must work closely with their transfer institutions and their SFCC advisers to ensure the best transition to four-year schools.
